BALLOT ASKED ON SUNDAY LAW

TWO STATE BANK OFFICIALS JAILED

DEPUTY STATE BANKER, AIDE FACE CHARGES

Embezzlement of Funds Through False Appraisals is Charged In Warrants

JOHNSON MAKES COMPLAINT

Pair Deny The Accusation And Threaten Revelations That Will Rock State

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Sigmund Janas, chief deputy state superintendent of banks, and J. H. Goldman, expert accountant employed by the superintendent's office, were arrested yesterday on warrants sworn to by State Superintendent of Banks John Franklin Johnson.

Janas was charged with embezzling State funds through the falsification of public records, and Goldman with receiving stolen property. Each was released on $2,500 bail.

According to Johnson, the alleged peculations of Janas have been in progress for eighteen months. Janas is charged with misappropriating the funds and turning them over to Goldman.

In addition, Johnson charges Janas with stealing valuable papers and records from the bank superintendent's office, and with stealing a clock, the property of the office, valued at $45. Janas has been suspended from office by Johnson.

SEARCH WARRANT ISSED

Search warrants for the homes of Janas and Goldman were also sworn to and Detective Sergeant William Proll was sent to serve them.

Johnson declared that Janas drew a salary of $425 a month. He asserted Janas had admitted that this was his only source of income. Despite that fact, said Johnson, an examination of Janas' accounts has revealed deposits of more than $29,000 since his appointment as chief deputy May 1, 1924.

Both Janas and Goldman denied the charges brought by Johnson and termed them a "frameup." Friends of the accused man said the charges arose from differences of opinion between Johnson and his subordinates over the litigation surrounding the Valley Bank of Fresno.

American Legion Plans Endowment, To Enter Parade

The American Legion Endowment fund quota of Richmond will be raised by a series of entertainments, it was determined at the meeting of Legion held in Memorial hall last night. These entertainments will be in the nature of dances, parties and picnics and will be staged under the auspices of the American Legion Endowment committee, which is headed by R. Crose. A decision was reached to the effect that it would not be advisable to raise the quota by subscription, on account of the recent community hotel campaign.

F. A. Mayers, assisted by J. H. Fitzpatrick, were chosen to take charge of arrangements for the Legion's participation in the parade in connection with the Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment here on June 25, 26 and 27. The parade is to be held in the early evening of June 25, and many other organizations besides the Veterans of Foreign Wars are planning to take part in it.

All routine business of the Legion was cleared away at the meeting last night, over which Commander George Tandy presided. The evening was wound up with what the members termed a "swell feed," served "Dutch" style.

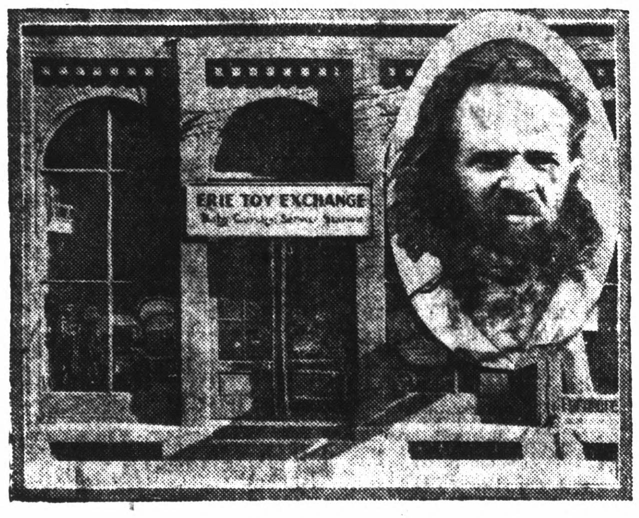
Physician, Missing 5 Years and Toy-Mending Shop Where He "Started Life Anew" at Erie, Pa



For five years Dr. Charles F. Hastings of New York, heir to the $50,000 estate left by his mother, Mrs. Caroline F. Hastings of Ithaca, N. Y., has been a mender of toys, dolls and furniture at Erie, where he is known as John Hugh. His "disappearance" was due to his desire to start anew a life that included, it is said, seven years spent in institutions for the insane. He dropped out of sight while serving on the staff of the Homeopathic hospital in Pittsburg, Pa., Search for him was made following the death of his mother on May 8.

FIRST WITNESS IN GERM CASE

(By Universal Service)

CHICAGO, June 11.—The first witnesses in the trail of William D. Shepherd, charged with slaying William N. McClintock, his millionaire ward, gave their testimony today. The examination of witnesses started immediately after State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe had completed a long statement to the jury, outlining what the State expects to be able to prove. The courtroom was crowded, a contrast to scenes in the hall of justice during the last three weeks while a jury was being selected.

Two witnesses had been on the stand when court recessed this evening until tomorrow morning.

There are Judge Harry Olson, an old friend of the McClintock family, who had started the investigation of young McClintock's death after a physician's certificate had given typhoid fever as the cause of death. Judge Olson believed the boy had been fed typhoid germs to cause his death.

The other witness was Alexander Reichmon, an attorney, who had drawn the McClintock will and who for years has been legal adviser of the McClintocks.

The testimony of neither witness proved of great interest. But introducing Judge Olson as a witness was regarded as a victory for State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. Crowe may be expected to recall Judge Olson later. William Scott Stewart, Shepherd's attorney, objected to Olson going on the stand, but his objection was overruled by Judge William Lynch.

Judge Olson merely established the corpus delecti. He had seen the youth alive and had seen him dead. He admitted, on cross-examination that he had not seen "Billy often but had been a friend of the family for years.

Injured Cyclist Loses Right Leg

Robert Ridley, employee of the Pioneer Rubber Mills at Pittsburg, injured Sunday when his motorcycle crashed into the automobile of George Trail, 1620 Tacoma street Berkeley, at the junction of the Giant highway with San Pablo Avenue, had his right leg amputated at the hospital yesterday. The leg was badly crushed but physicians at first hoped to be able to save it. The attending surgeons were Drs. Merrithew and Sweetser.

Ridley's cycle crashed head on into Trail's car after it had side swiped another machine.

SCOPES TRIAL TO TEST LAW

DAYTON, (Tenn.), June 11.—John Thomas Scopes will not have trouble getting a jury here that will find him guilty of teaching evolution in Tennessee.

And that is just what Scopes and his staff of advisers are working for. If he should be acquitted the case would end and there would be no opportunity of testing the law in the higher courts.

This will be the first time in this county that a man went on trial working for conviction. It will be the first time that his attorneys—Clarence Darrow, Dudley Field Malone and Bainbridge Colby—ever tried to convict their own client.

But they do not have to worry about finding a jury that will carry out their wishes. The people of this little town are composed for the most part of strong fundamentalists—men women who are violently opposed to the theory of evolution.

Three denominations predominate, the Methodists, Baptists and Holy Rollers. They all believe the Bible from cover to cover, according to their interpretations and they all interpret the story of creation as recorded in Genesis literally and as contrary to the theory of evolution.

If the Scopes attorneys see a possiblity of acquittal they will have their client plead guilty at the last minute.

The purpose of next month's trial is two fold, to guide the case into higher courts where the constitutionality of Tennessee's suit-evolution can be treated and to gain as much publicity as possible.

It was with the later object in view that Darrow, Malons and Colby were chosen.

People here are beginning to refer to the trial as "Darrow's circus."

Remarkable Talk Given at Gideon Club Dinner By Rev. E. W. Haney

One of the most remarkable addresses ever heard in Richmond was made last night at the dinner meeting of the Gideon club of the First Baptist church by Rev. Earl W. Haney, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who used for his subject, "Conditions as They Are in the World."

Rev. Haney said the world today is in a state of chaos and calls for the best there is in men to meet the situation. He spoke of the present conditions in China and said most people are predjuiced against the Oriental viewpoint and biased by the press reports they read. He declared Big Business and exploited child labor in China until the Chinese people could no longer stand it, so they took up arms.

Then, turning his review to conditions as they are in Europe, Rev. Haney said that when the American boys fought in the world war they were told and believed they were fighting to make conditions better "But the question is," said Rev. Heney, "were they made any better?" He indicated that the purpose for which America fought had failed of attainment.

"We in the United States," Rev. Haney continued, "have our own great problems. One of them is law enforcement," and he told of many great statesmen, among them President Calvin Coolidge, who are now advocating law enforcement.

Another national problem stressed by Mr. Haney is juvenile delinquency which he said is one of the greatest problems now before the American people. He declared a great deal of this trouble may be traced to the parents, many of whom take small interest in their children, and he stated it as a fact that education could not solve the problem. Substantiating this statement he told of 43 men now serving terms in Leavenworth Federal prison, who have college degrees and are capable of teaching college courses.

In conclusion, Rev. Haney said there are too many laws in the United States, so many that the people do not try to observe them, making this nation a nation of lawbreakers. He told of a man in New York City who looted a bank after attending a mechanical school for five years to learn how to open locks and vaults.

Ralph Cunningham was chairman of the evening, which opened with the usual dinner at 6:15. Henry Clark pleased with a solo, accompanied by Miss Ruby Williams at the piano. The dinner was exceptionally well served by a committee headed by Mrs. Baker.

Carl Longacre gave a short talk on the new Mexican mission recently opened in Richmond by the Baptist church people. He said the members of the Gideon club had painted and cleaned the mission building and made it sanitary. Mexican women have formed sewing classes, two religious services have been held and were well attended, and Mexican children are beginning to take an interest in Sunday school, the speaker said.

Mrs. Agnes Lynch Is Visitor Here

Mrs. Anges Lynch of San Antonio Texas, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Helen Johnson, manager of the L. H. Schrader Furniture Co.

Mrs. Lynch is a sister of the late L. H. Schrader, pioneer furniture dealer. Mrs. Lynch visited here some two years ago, when she stayed at Sonora with her brother.

She will make her headquarters with her daughter at the Lancaster apartments. Mrs. Lynch expects to stay in Richmond for several months.

Bus Fight Renewed In San Francisco For Contra Costa

The fight to secure a San Francisco-Yosemite stage line permit via Contra Costa was resumed yesterday before the state railroad commission in San Francisco, when the bid of the Yosemite Transit Company came up for a hearing.

The commission now has under advisement the request of the San Francisco-Sierra Motor Coach Company, which entered the lists with the support of the Richmond city council. The council, however, withdrew its support when the Santa Fe company employees at Richmond protested that if a permit for such a service is granted the railroad would cancel trains and throw them out of employment.

The chief difference between the two proposed lines is that the San Francisco-Sierra company would come throug Richmond by way of the Southern Pacific ferry, while the San Francisco-Yosemite line would go through Oakland and the canyon road.

WEST SIDE PROGRESSIVE ASS'N OPPOSES CITY ORDINANCE, AND ASKS ELECTION ON QUESTION

IN STRONG SET OF RESOLUTIONS CLUB CONDEMNS PROPOSED SKATING, DANCING BAN AS OF NO "EARTHLY GOOD" AND ONLY HARMFUL

Branding the proposed Sunday ban against skating and dancing in Richmond as of "no earthly good and only harmful to the community," the West Side Progressive association, last night, adopted stinging resolutions against the law and calling upon the city council to submit the question to a vote of the people

In reviewing the causes that lead up to the resolutions, the association declares that inasmuch as the community has just subscribed $200,000 for a tourist hotel something should be done to bring people into Richmond on Sunday instead of driving them out. It is also held that amusement at home will tend to keep the young people at home.

THE RESOLUTIONS

WHEREAS, the City of Richmond is a thriving cosmopolitan City of some twenty-five thousand people.

WHEREAS, encouragement should be given to the real communal life of the people; the getting together in congenial and jovial contact with one another.

WHEREAS, education is desirable, as it is possible to educate the people, particularly the young, along scientific, historical, ethical, religious and moral lines; it is impossible to reform them.

WHEREAS, an enlightened people will make their own laws and will know how to inforce them.

WHEREAS, the only crusade worth while is a concerted movement to educate the citizens; teach them to think and they will develop better taste in their habits, their reading and their pastimes.

WHEREAS, the CITY OF RICHMOND, is a workingman's town. Its citizens work six days a week earning their living, and the only opportunity for amusement is on Sunday.

WHEREAS, some six hundred citizens of our city have subscribed $200,000.00 for a community hotel; wholesome amusement must be afforded if we would attract people to our City.

WHEREAS, the citizens of RICHMOND have voted bonds in the sum of $100,000.00 for a municipal natatorium which will be patronized largely on Sunday.

WHEREAS, every American, regard less of his religion, or lack of religion, is a good American, if he works for a living, respects the Constitution, obeys the laws, recognizes the Government of the United States as the supreme power under heaven, and refrains frm interfering with the rights of other Americans, as set forth in the Constitution, free speech, free thought, free newspapers, free religion and complete separation of church and state. Now therefore be it,

RESOLVED THAT the Westside Progressive Association is opposed to the ordinance introduced at the meeting of the City Council June 8th, prohibiting dancing and skating on Sunday, as too drastc and unnecessary, and no earthly good can be accomplished by its enactment, but will result in harm to our City. Be it further

RESOLVED, that the City Council place the matter before the votes for decision at the next municipal election. Be it further

RESOLVED THAT a copy of these Resolutions be sent to the City Council and a copy spread upon the minutes of this Association.

WESTSIDE PROGRESSIVE ASSOCIATION.
By C. M. PATTEN,
Secretary.

The proposed ordinance, so strongly protested by the West Side association, comes up for consideration before the city council at their meeting next Monday night. It was introduced by the Richmond church fellowship.

TO CELEBRATE FOURTH.

E. J. Esola, president of the association presided at the meeting last night and general routine business was transacted. It was decided to petition the city council to place two street traffic buttons on the west side, at the intersection of Richmond and Washington and Washington and Standard avenues.

Tentative plans for a Fourth of July celebration at Point Richmond were made and a committee to make the necessary arrangements was appointed as follows: W. B. Andrews, Catherine McCracken, A. Trautvetter, Ed McDuff, Mrs. Billy Brown.

LOCAL LABOR FAVORED.

Edgar C. Huyck, superintendent of the Rust-Campbell company, gave the address of the evening, stressing community co-operation. Local factories should employe local labor, local people should patronize local merchants, said the speaker.

He said that some local factories do not employ local labor, and pointed out the drawback it is to the local merchants when the laborer who works here draws his check and spends it elsewhere. This sentiment was given strong support by the association.

Auto Stolen in Oakland Is Found

The Dodge automobile belonging to V. T. Johnson, 514 Sixty-Sixth street, Oakland, which was stolen on Thursday, was found by local police far up in Grand Canyon yesterday afternoon. The car had been stripped of all tires and accessories. It was returned to its lawful owner. Two small boys who had been playing in the canyon discovered the stolen car and immediately notified the Richmond police department. An officer was sent to investigate the matter and the car was later identified as Johnson's.

DEMOCRACY OR REPUBLIC

With increasing frequency the American government is described as a "democracy" by speakers and writers—so often that many who would by a moment's thought be convinced that the term thus applied is a misnomer, fall into the habit of using this phrase as descriptive of our republic. Reference to the speeches and writings of the great men of the nation up to within a few years since, will disclose that this erroneous characterization of our republic was rarely used. Today it is so common that consideration of the distinction between a democracy and a representative republic is a duty of citizenship.

Attention is called by George B. Lockwood, editor of the National Republic, of Washington, in a recent issue of that periodical, to the dictionary definition of democracy, as politically applied which is "government directly by the people collectively, a government so conducted." The definition of republic is quite different. Webster says it means "a state in which the sovereign power resides in a certain body of the people, and is exercisd by representatives responsible to them. It now often specially implies a free popular government in which there are no classes having exclusive political privileges."

The decision was definitely made by the founders of this government between the form of government known as a democracy and that dscribed as a representative republic. Hamilton and others of the architects of our federal Constitution are denounced by radicals today because they inveighed against the form of government known as a democracy, and we have come to use the word so loosely that the impression is given that Hamilton and Washington were attacking popular government. Republicanism means the rule of the people through chosen representatives. Democracy means direct rule by the people, without the choice of representatives restrained by checks and balance of power. One means government by deliberation, and under reasonable restraint; the other means government by impulse and passion. The people rule as truly in a republic as in a democracy; but in the one case they rule intelligently and deliberately, in the other with the danger of irretrievable error through momentary mass impulse and passion.

ONE REASON HE WON

One of the most significant facts about President Hindenburg's election is that it was brought about by what is usually termed the stay-at-home vote. The same vote insured the success of a conservative government in England a few months ago.

That which brought out the stay-at-home vote in Great Britain to support Stanley Baldwin, was the story of communistic plotting in Great Britain. It is extremely likely that what stirred the stay-at-home vote in Germany to come out for Hindenburg was the recent conviction of communistic plotters in Germany, the just as recent horrors in Bulgaria, and the "red" ambush in France.

The victory for Hindenburg was a victory for nationalism over internationalism, and it was doubtless greatly aided by bolshevist activities throughout Europe in recent weeks. It is said that the majority of the women voted for the nationalist candidate. It is not likely they did so because they wanted their sons and brothers to get into another war. It is more than probable that they supported the ex-soldier because they did not want any drift toward communism in Germany. Women as a general rule in all countries are more conservative than men, especially when the question of socialism is up.

The reds by their recent activities in Europe have placed Stanley Baldwin in power in England, have strengthened Mussolini's hand in Italy, have elected Hindenburg in Germany and will soon probably bring about the selection of a conservative government in France.

CONVICTS AS JOURNALISTS

One of the finest and snappiest magaiznes that we have ever seen is "The Bulletin," written, edited and published entirely by the inmates of the California State Prison at San Quentin, on the prison printing press. The June, and third, issue of the magazine has just reached our desk and it is one periodical that is "alive."

Get it and read it. It is as remarkable as it is meritorious, and it will open your eyes in more ways than one. You will be surprised at the breadth and scope of its viewpoint, and amazed at the erudition of its editorial staff. The convicts are allowed to receive outside subscriptions at $1 a year and orders may be mailed to Norman Selby (Kid McCoy) who is circulation manager; but checks must be payable to Warden Albert J. Smith.

We don't know what they do with the money earned in this way but we do know that it is well worth anybody's dollar just to get the viewpoint of these people, shut away behind the prison walls just across the bay from Richmond.

Stripes Are in Bogue for Sports Wear, in Wash Silk and Crepe de Chine.

There is something in the very appearance of striped fabrics that suggests the sports frock. For afternoon and evening and rather elaborate street wear women now choose the figure-printed chiffons, but for sports wear they choose stripes.

The rule has always been that stripes worn up and down were suitable only for women who were neither tall nor thin, but fashion nowadays seems to ignore the plump woman entirely. If up and down stripes make the slender girl appear any slenderer then up and down stripes she will have.

So it is that a large number of the striped silk frocks are made with the stripes running simply up and down though ocasionally the stripes are used in a horizontal manner by way of trimming. The sketch shows one of the favorite ways of making use of striped wash silk. The skirt which is usually mounted on a light silk bodice is short and straight with inverted box pleats at the sides.

The jumper is opened part way down the front. Often the striped silk is made up in even simpler manner, with a straight one-piece frock of unbroken line save for a narrow silk belt placed just over the hips.

Though long sleeves are regarded as a trifle newer this season, shorter sleeves are still chosen by the woman who wishes to wear her sport frocks for actual sports. These striped silks are either of the silk shirting variety, when the stripe is woven in, or are of the crepe de chine variety, when the stripe is printed. The frock in the sketch is of blue and white shirt silk.

One of the sports wear shops offers a one-piece frock of striped shirting silk as a regulation golf frock. It is made with opening—supplied with buttons and buttonhole—part way down the front and a narrow string sash of the silk which ties in loops at one side. There are two pockets at the front.

DO YOU LIKE CHOCOLATE?

Almost everybody likes the flavor of chocolate. You have only to watch for half an hour at a soda counter or tea-room to realize the truth of this statement. The number of chocolate sodas and sundaes and wedges of chocolate cake and pie would prove it.

If you do like chocolate and if it agrees with you, it is a source of great food value. It has high energy value, as you probably know. Many persons can quickly refresh themselves when they are tired by eating some sweet chocolate or milk chocolate. Soldiers on the march often find it helpful and mountain climbers and other explorers take it along with them, frequently, to aid them in keeping up their resistence and energy.

One reason some persons think it it not agreeable to them is that they eat it after an otherwise heavy meal.

WHEN YOU BORROW

If you are giving a big card party doubtless you borrow tables from your neighbors. Of course, if it is a very big party, in the hands of a caterer, then you hire the tables along with the refreshments. But most of us borrow from our neighbors.

Now when you borrow a card table if it does not already bear the owner's name write it on the upper side with chalk. It can then be rubbed off if the owner desires, but it will identify the table for your own help until after the party is over, and the table safely returned.

PUBLIC DRINKING FOUNTAINS

The first use of public drinking fountains was in the seventh century, in the reign of King Ethel Hyde of England. He is credited with constructing "wells" where travellers might drink, with copper cups for the thirsty. Human nature was much the same then as now; the chronicle states that the cups were "faste chayned."

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

SALLY and TOM PORTER have separated, quarreling because Sally has insisted on returning to her work as a public stenographer after their marriage. The fact that she did so in order to pay their bills when he lost his job makes no difference to Tom.

SALLY finds other men ready to help her forget Tom, but she cannot put him out of her heart. At last she realizes that her life will always be incomplete without him, and when a letter comes from his sister.

EMILY, saying that Tom is devoting himself to another girl, Sally decides to make one more effort to straighten out the tangle between them.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XLIII—A GLIMPSE OF HEAVEN

It was cold and rainy when Sally arrived in New York; the lights of the automobiles that went scudding through the streets were reflected in the dark, wet pavements, and office buildings rose against the sky in tiers of lighted windows.

VIOLET DARE

Sally went straight to Emily's. Emily hadn't always been kind to her, but Sally felt so alone that she was eager to see someone, anyone, who belonged to her in any way. Then, too, Emily would talk of Tom.

And even though Tom evidently had turned to another girl, Sally wanted to hear of him. It would be like pressing down hard on an aching tooth, and getting a strange sort of comfort out of the action!

Emily was in a turmoil, trying to finish dinner and get Junior ready for bed at the same time. He had his bath and she was putting his night things on him when Sally arrived.

"Oh, let me do it," Sally begged, and sat down on the floor with the baby's soft little body in her arms.

"I'll be glad to," sighed Emily, drawing the back of her hand across her forehead wearily. "Somehow, this has just been one of the days when I never could quite catch up with what was ahead of me. Junior's wanted me all the time—he's getting another tooth—and then the butcher didn't send the meat for dinner and I had to go after it, and there weren't any potatoes when I got back, and—"

But Sally wasn't listening. She was playing with the baby, pretending for the moment that he belonged to her—to her and Tom! In that brief interval Sally knew what it was that she wanted more than anything else that life could give her. Her own husband and her own children—just what Emily had. That was what was worth fighting for!

"I never knew what it was to live before!" she exclaimed when Junior had fallen asleep in her arms and she sat holding him. "Oh, Emily, you were wiser than I was. If I'd never gone back to work, even when Tom lost his job—if I'd just waited till he got on his feet again, by himself, I believe it would have been better."

"Well—of course—" Emily hesitated. She couldn't help wondering what Tom would have done if Sally hadn't come to the rescue. But it was flattering to feel that she was the one of the two who had made a success of life.

"What are you going to do now?" she asked, after a moment.

"Oh, the same old thing—get a job, and find a corner somewhere that I can call home," answered Sally. She had no intention of confiding all her plans to Emily. "You wrote me that Tom wasn't looking well. How is he, really?"

"Why, he's picked up a lot. That night he was here, the night I wrote you about, he did look seedy, and I fussed and fussed at him till he promised he'd take better care of himself. He went out the next day—that girl I wrote you about, who came up here with him, went along—and he bought a new suit and hat and even a cane. Imagine Tom with a cane! But it makes a lot of difference in his looks. The girl has a friend who has a great big house in the suburbs, and Tom's been out there to dinner and he's crazy about it. I guess, Sally, that if you'd let Tom have his freedom, and he could marry her—"

Sally's cheeks flushed hotly. Emily spoke as if she'd been trying to stand in Tom's way!

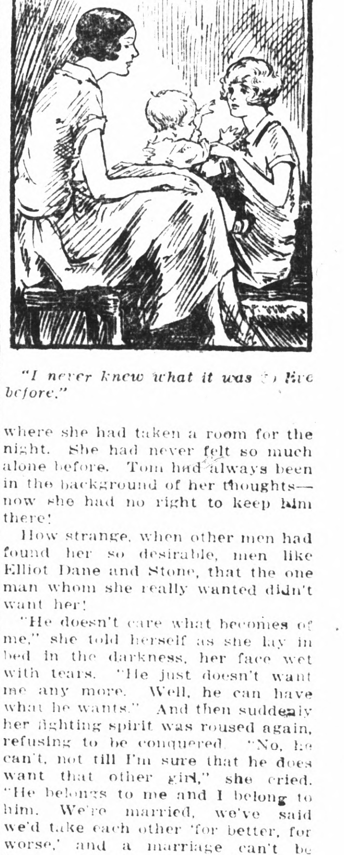
"You know that I'd never keep Tom from having anything or anyone that would make him happy," she said, quietly.

"Then—shall I tell him that?"

Sally nodded, too wretched to speak.

Evidently Tom and Emily had discussed the whole thing. She could imagine them sitting there, talking her over, wondering if she'd give him a divorce. And Tom had probably planned his whole future with this other girl, planned the way they'd save till they could have a house in a suburb themselves.

Sally's heart was heavy with bitterness as she left Emily's and made her way to the cheap little hotel where she had taken a room for the night. She had never felt so much alone before. Tom had always been in the background of her thoughts—now she had no right to keep him there!



"I never knew what it was to live before."

How strange, when other men had found her so desirable, men like Elliot Dane and Stone, that the one man whom she really wanted didn't want her!

"He doesn't care what becomes of me," she told herself as she lay in bed in the darkness, her face wet with tears. "He just doesn't want me any more. Well, he can have what he wants." And then suddenly her fighting spirit was roused again, refusing to be conquered. "No, he can't, not till I'm sure that he does want that other girl," she cried. "He belongs to me and I belong to him. We're married, we've said we'd take each other 'for better, for worse,' and a marriage can't be broken off this way. I'll go on fighting for him, I'll never give up, till Tom tells me himself that he doesn't want me!"

And that decision brought peace that let her sleep in spite of the ceaseless noise of the Elevated trains that went tearing past the hotel, and the heavy trucks that thundered through the street all through the night.

It brought dreams too—dreams of Tom, of the days when they had been bride and groom, and happy in each other.

Presbyterian Ladies Aid Society Meets

The Ladies Aid society of the First Presbyterian church met in regular session at the parlors of the church yesterday afternoon with President Mrs. Spires in charge. The time was taken up with sewing blouses for the boys in the Presbyterian orphanage at San Anselmo. Refreshments were served after the meeting by Mrs. Bullock, Mrs. Bee and Mrs. Long.

The ladies of this society, as well as all other members of the church, are highly elated over the enthusiasm being shown in the Daily Vacation Bible school, which is being held under the direction of Mrs. Lucy De Shield. The children of the class who are under 8 years of age gather daily at Lincoln auditorium, while the older pupils convene at the church.

The work of the class consits of a Bible study period, a lesson period and a recreation period. The girls have their recreation at the church and the boys go over to the Y. M. C. A. for a daily workout.

EPHI TE CLUB GIVES BRIDE-ELECT SHOWER

BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR AT ORINDA

Orinda's most brilliant social event of the season was held Saturday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Meagher, with Capt. Oakley and wife assisting. Their fine house was tastily decorated, and much ingunity and originality was shown in the decoration of the grounds coupled with unique lighting effects. Sixty guests were present, several being people of note, who proclaimed Orinda "The best ever." Mrs. Meagher's sister, who is a splendid pianist, gave of her talent generously. Captain Oakley and Dr. Meagher staged a comedy skit, impersonating two darkies claiming a horse that had died from overwork. This, with Capt. Oakley's well known talent as an entertainer, provoked roars of laughter. Many new games were played and community singing enjoyed. Dancing finished a perfect evening.

PYTHIAN SISTERS VISIT AT OAKLAND

A number of Richmond Temple Pythian Sisters were entertained in the Oakland Pythian hall by Loyal Temple No. 7, in honor of the newly elected grand outer guard, Mrs. Ruth Liest. Florence Flieler, who is Grand Chief and a member of Calanthe Temple of Oakland, was also present and both grand officers received many beautiful gifts from the visitors. The meeting was followed by a banquet and a social time.

This afternoon Mrs. Josie Neville will entertain the Sewing club of the Richmond Temple at her home, 885 Eighth street. On Saturday evening, a whist will be held at the home of Mrs. Cora Wallace, 1520 San Pablo avenue. Some fine prizes have been provided for this whist.

CIVIC AFFAIRS TALKED AT ST. EDMUND'S CLUB

A round table discussion of civic affairs took place during the weekly dinner of St. Edmund's Mens' club at the church last night. Jack Dixon was to have been chairman of the evening, but due to the illness of his daughter, he could not be in attendance. Dr. Sidney Taylor was named to fill the vacancy.

It was decided during the course of the dinner to hold two more meetings and then adjourn for the vacation. The ladies of the church cooked and served the delicious dinner which the members of the club so greatly enjoyed.

W. B. A. Sewing Club Guests Of Mrs. Vickery

Mrs. W. A. Vickery again proved herself to be the most charming hostess yesterday afternoon when she entertained the members of the W. B. Sewing club in her home at 144 Fifteenth street. The ladies who were guests of Mrs. Vickery spent afternoon in preparing fancy work articles to be used as prizes at a whist party to be given in Memorial hall on the evening of June 24. Mrs. Schimpff, president, was in charge of the meeting, but the hostess served lovely luncheon at noon time.

The W. B. A. of Macabees held its first meeting in Memorial hall on Thursday evening, and it was made the occasion of a social time and housewarming. Distinguished visitors who were present and gave talks were District Deputy Mrs. Pierce of Oakland, and Commander Mrs. Clifford of Oakland review, No. 14.

Following the meeting a social whist was held with Mrs. Vickery Mrs. Lolita Downey and Mrs. Amelia Fry winning prizes. A banquet concluded the evening. It was prepared by Mesdames Gibson, Scarlett, Smith, Carlson, and Mudson.

WHIST PARTY PRIZE WINNERS ANNOUNCED

Attended by a large crowd, the whist party held by the Neighbors of Woodcraft in the W. O. W. hall last night was one of the most successful of the season. Prize winners were announced as follows: Bessie Eggerth, Ethel Tembleton, Gertrude Spiersch, Mrs. Hutson, W. R. Leach, Mrs. John Russell, Mrs. Madeen, Mrs. C. Pierson, and J. Austin the door prize.

Y. L. AND Y. M. I. TO INITIATE SUNDAY

The Y. M. I. and Y. L. I. organizations about the bay will hold a big district initiation at Sebastopol on Sunday, June 28, it was annaunced last night the meeting of Burk Council, No. 609, Y. M. I. held in Memorial hall. It is expected that Richmond will send a large class to be initiated at that time. The local order will hold an initiation of its own on Thursday evening, June 25. The meeting last night, which was devoted to business matters, was presided over by Barnard Dolan, president.

Girl, Freed by Jury, Admitted She Killed Father's "Affinity"

Lucille Wunsch, 15-year-old Chicago girl, was freed by a Coroner's Jury, although she admitted that she had shot and killed Miss Agnes Sinneck, the "other woman," who had supplanted her mother in her father's affectioss. Te girl accordentally wounded her father and mother. Lucille declared that her father's attention to Miss Simneck threatened to break up their home She told the jury that she did not intend to kill Miss Sinneck but merely wanted to frighten her.

Skating Races Featured Here At Winters Hall

With the patrons of Winter's skating rink lining the four walls, the speedy skaters of this locality toed the mark and tore of the half mile in something over two minutes, last night.

Bart Vianno a Richmond skater after the neckbreaking race, was declared the winner. His time was 2 minutes and 5 seconds. Cliff Angel, amateur champ of Oakland was the favorite in the race, but was nosed out by Vianno. Chester Shaw of Richmond was third.

The race drew considerable attention on its primier appearance. It has therefore been decided to hold a race each Thursday (and Sunday) night beginning at 9:30 o'clock sharp.

Sulphur is Best To Clear Skin

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowels Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

Women's Hose

1—Origin of Hosiery:

The word hose or hosiery is derived from the old German "hosa" meaning breeches; it was used for any covering for the leg, and eventually acquired its modern usage. The earliest hose were cut out of cloth and sewed up in the desired shape. Knitting was the last of the textile processs to be discovered, and it is only about 400 years ago that the art of looping thread together into a fabric was invented, probably in Scotland. The first knitting machine was invented by the Rev. William Lee, of Nottingham, England, in 1589. Although it was a crude affair, it could do the work 500 times faster than the hand process. The English government put excessive duties upon the exportation of stocking machines, but in 1822 one was hidden in salt, and smuggled into Ipswich. This was the beginning of the hosiery industry in America, and Ipswich is the center of the hosiery trade today. American inventors revolutionized machines for knitting hosiery by developing the circular machine and the invention of the "latch" needle. The result has been to cut down the amount of skilled labor required, and also the expense. It is now possible to use five or six different kinds of yarn in a single stocking—the finer qualities where it shows and the heavier where the wear comes.

Don't be Alarmed
About Kidney symptoms — Just do this

Do this when the kidneys seem upset. When you feel pain in the back, have highly-colored urine or frequent urination.

Learn if the kidneys are not merely congested, just as the bowels often are. Give them acid, and watch results.

Drink plenty of water. Drink a glass or two before breakfast. To the morning glass add a little Jad Salts. That will give you a sparkling drink.

Jad Salts is made from acids of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia. It is to aid both kidneys and bowels.

Results usually come in one hour. Elimination stars. Poisons and wastes go.

Keep this up for a few days. Then see if your trobules are not ended. Countless people find them gone when they use this modern method.

Will you give 15 minutes this week for a lifetime of foot comfort?

Probably not one person in ten realizes that there is anything particularly wrong with his feet—and yet army statistics have conclusively shown that at least seven people out of every ten are suffering from some form of foot trouble.

As you study the chart at the top of the page, you will note, perhaps, certain symptoms which have occurred at some time with you.

This week—from now until the close of business next Saturday—is Dr. Scholl's Demonstration Week. During this week an opportunity is offered to you to find out the true condition of your feet and the corrective methods, if needed, which will bring relief.

If your feet tire easily, if they ache and burn and perspire, if a moderate amount of walking seems to bring excessive fatigue, if you have corns or callouses or bunions, weak arches, "weak foot" or flat foot, or pains in legs and hips that are rheumatic-like in their intensity, you owe it to yourself to find out how thousands have benefited through the use of Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Appliances and Remedies.

This week, also, we will be glad to present you with the items listed in the coupon below, as long as our supply lasts.

SPECIAL COUPON—FREE!

This coupon will entitle the holder, when signed and presented at our store, to:
1. Dr. Scholl's Corrective Foot Exercise Chart
2. Booklet, "Treatment and Care of the Feet"
3. One sample of Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads and, if desired by the undersigned, a complete shoe fitting and foot comfort demonstration free.

SENSATIONAL PLAY MADE IN TWILIGHT GAME

STANDARD OIL LEAGUE

Club—	W	L	Pct
Mechanics	3	1	750
Barrel House	2	2	.500
All Standards	2	2	.500
Refinery	1	3	.250

For the first time this season the Mechanics tasted defeat last night, and it certainly was bitter deteat. More so because it was administered to the tune of 8 to 2 at the hands of the All Standards, who have of late been way down toward the cellar. The game was played at First street before a crowd of fans who demonstrated their enthusiasm by cheers and jeers as the case might be.

The All Standard started from the first as if they were bound to win, clouting a pair of hits in the first, which after a bit of playing resulted in one run. The second half of the first showed, however, that the Mechanics themselves had aspirations for the victory, but they were soon throttled.

In this inning the only error of the game was made. Lamarra cracked an infield hit, and Allen sent one out to the outer garden. Paddy O'Rourke, intending to sacrifice himself on the altar of friendship and team work, bunted down third base line. Buttisbach made a dive for the pill—and muffed. Lamarra scored and Allen went to third and O'Rourke to second. Then "Red" Johnson smacked a grounder into Carson's hands, and the latter gentleman, displaying some sensational footwork, tagged both Allen and O'Rourke for an unassisted duble.

Another sight, not heretofore seen this year in this league, was unfurled before the eyes of the enthralled fans in the fourth. Cullers, the sensation runner came to the rubber, picked one to his liking and slapped it for a homer The ball would in all probability be going yet if it hadn't hit a telegraph pole across the street from the fence. In the same inning, Buttisbach who is a mere pitcher, dazzled all concerned with a low drive that topped the fence and cracked into the side of the Mexican dwellings out back of the score board. Not to be outdone, the mighty Schulte, of big league fame, arrived in due course at the plate, and slapped another homer over right field fence.

Pitchers were there in abundance on the side of the Mechanics. G. Kerston opened the game and allowed four runs, and seven hits in four and 1-3 innings. He was relieved by his younger brother Elmer, who in the short space of 2-3 of an inning let a couple more runs come in and allowed as many hits.

Kogler did a little better. He was at bat twice, got two hits, stole 2 bases, made one assist, allowed four hits and passed one man in three innings.

Two base hits were the long suit of the game. A sturdy willow waver would march to the pan whistling or singing "Everybody's doin' it" and proceed to slap out his daily two bagger. Three double plays were also pulled in rapid succession.

"Our Hospitality" At Richmond Today

Making pictures is a hard life. Details of technique can be worked out but unexpected turns make producers prematurely bald from tearing their hair.

A detailed enumeration of all the severities faced by Buster Keaton, the Metro star, and his forces in making his latest Joseph M. Schenck comedy, "Our Hospitality," to be shown at the Richmond Theatre starting today would call to mind the ordeal of Washington and his men at Valley Forge.

Buster had a railroad train constructed a facsimile of the first engine ever built, "The Rocket." The trip on the screen runs off smoothly enough. Film fans, however, will see nothing of the times Buster had to alight from his coach and help his staff put the engine back on the track.

Another peril was the shooting of the falls. Buster actually went over a fifty-foot fall tied to a log. Had the log failed to jam and hold him swinging just below the brink he would have been finished off either by crashing on the rocks fifty feet below the fall, or the heavy log would have fallen on him and fatally crushed him.

"Our Hospitality," Buster's second feature-length comedy, is a travesty on American life in the early 1830's. Jack Blystone and Buster Keaton directed, with Elgin Lessly and Gordon Jennings as cameramen. Fred Gabouri was art director. The story was written by Jean Havez, Joe Mitchell and Clyde Bruckman.

Other features on the same program include the Twelfth thrilling chapter of "Haunted Valley," featuring Ruth Roland; "Felix Minds The Kid" a Felix, the cat, comedy.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR BALL GAME, DANCE SATURDAY

After a long and laborious study, Tex Brown has announced the lineup for the Richmond Keys-Richmond Firemen game tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at First street. Greenless who has so many times previously held up the pitching honors of the Keys, will be seen on the mound, and O'Loan, veteran backstop for the team will again don the gib glove for the frey.

Others in the lineup will be Snowden, ss; Hoyle, 3b; Werman, 1b; Doheney, lf; Hoagland, cf; Scott, rf; Neylon, 2b.

Chief W. P. Cooper, manager of the Firemen still holds his lineup a secret. But it is expected that by the time the game is called tomorrow, he will have a powerful string of ball tossers to enter the game.

East Shore Park is taking on a festive aspect for the dance to be given in the evening by the two ball teams for the benefit of the relief funds. This affair is being given in all friendliness that will not be seen at the big game. A charge of 75 cents will be made for both the game and the dance, but the game alone may be witnessed for 25 cents.

As a little practice was needed by the firemen they journeyed over to Berkeley this week and took on the Fire Department of that city, administering a neat trouncing to the tune of 15 to 10. Marvin and Martin hurled and Huzefka and Merriman caught for the local team. Chief Cooper was highly elated over the outcome of this battle, as it really showed his men were good for something or they could not have beaten this fast club.

McKINLEY LODGE MEETING IS HELD

The meeting of McKinley lodge, No. 347, F. and A. M. held Masonic hall last night was presided over by E. G. Smyth, who acted as worshipful master, in the absence of B. E. Scoble, who was absent on account of the illness of one of his family. The second degree was conferred on a class of candidates at the meeting, but no other matters were taken up.

"The Speed Spook" Is Thriller Film At The California

"The Speed Spook," featuring Johnny Hines, which is now playing at the California Theatre has been pronounced by reviewers as the outstanding thrill picture of the year. Aside from the many thrills obtained from the championship auto race which was filmed last June at the Altoona Speedway, the speed spook car, which races roughshod without a driver through the village of Westwood and causes consternation among the townsfolk, is enough to cause any number of thrills to run down the proverbial spine. What with these thrills and another in which an armored car smashes through the wall of an arsenal, "The Speed Spook" certainly has every right to be called a real thrill production. Johnny Hines is at his best in this colorful melo-comedy, which means that those who enjoy a laugh and thrills had better not miss Johnny's latest.

Other features on the same program include "The Royal Four Flush," a Spat Family comedy; "International News;" Larry Canelo, at the organ.

We feel very sympathetic with the man who says that.

He's likely to be right. The line may need, and probably does need, new cars, new roadbed, or parts of both.

Without waiting for completion of its general Survey, this company in the first year of its operation spent more than One Million Dollars of new capital, in immediate betterments and improvements.

All of this money was expended upon our Traction Division, serving East Bay communities exclusively, with the exception of a single piece of trackage on the Oakland Pier. It was divided as follows:

Track Extensions and Improvements $658,706.11
Buildings 45,607.16
Equipment 296,417.70
Motor Buses (29 Pass. Capacity) 61,180.02
Miscellaneous 24,862.59

Total NEW Capital Investment in first year of this company's operation . . . $1,086,773.58

New lines of service, extensions and increased service on old lines, greater convenience, easier riding and many other advantages are the direct result of this investment. Take what is called "car mileage", for example—because increased car mileage means increased service to passengers. Here are the facts:

Total Car Mileage, 1924 . . . . 17,826,919 car miles
Total Car Mileage, 1923 . . . . 17,428,537 car miles

Increase in car mileage in first year of this company's operation . . . . 398,382 car miles

And, take,

Total Bus Mileage, 1924 . . . . 349,750 bus miles
Total Bus Mileage, 1923 . . . . 109,889 bus miles

Increase in bus mileage in first year of this company's operation . . . . 239,861 bus miles

Total Increase in Car and Bus Mileage, in first year of this company's operation . . 638,243 Miles

(These figures include only passenger-carrying operations. We have deducted what is known as "dead mileage".)

This is a quick flash of the picture of added investment and increased service in East Bay Cities during our first year of operation. We ask you to form your own judgment on these facts. The public is entitled to the kind of transportation it wants. We believe it wants, and is willing to pay for, "The Best Transportation Service in America." We are therefore furnishing that kind of transportation.

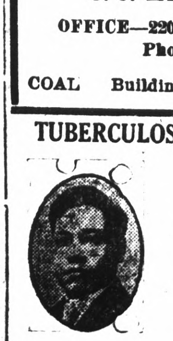
TUBERCULOSIS OVERCOME



Oakland, Calif.
April 28, 1925.

For about three years I suffered from a bad cough and sore chest. I tried many doctors, all of whom pronounced my case Tuberculosis. My spittle was examined and showed tubercular germs. As I found no improvement from any of the treatments that I took, I decided to give the FONG WAN HERBS a test, as a last resort.

After having drunk the herbs for four months, I was a well woman and had gained in weight. A year has elapsed since I began to take the FONG WAN HERBS on April 16, 1924, but today, I am still well and have no sign of my former complaints.

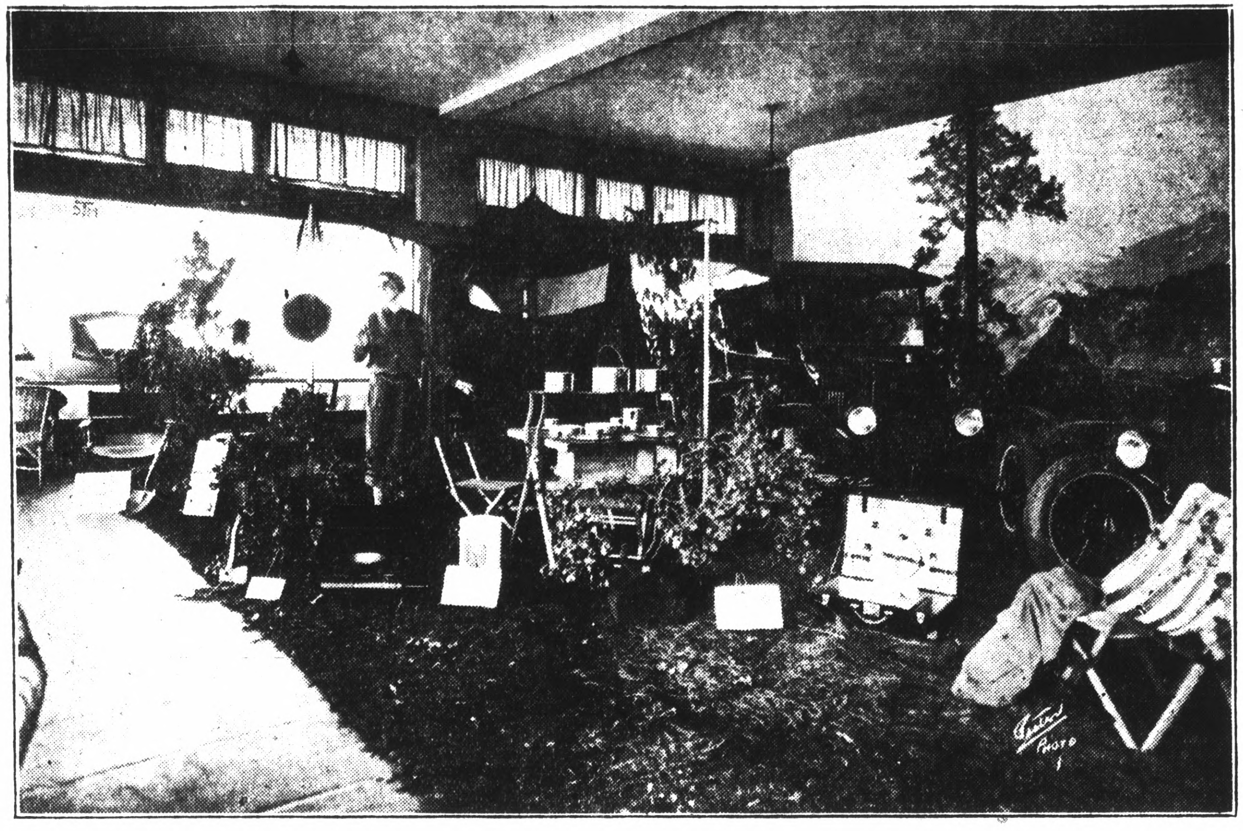
Summer Camping Scene at Thomas Motor Company Salesroom



Call of The Open Lures Vacationist

One of the prettiest summer camping scenes ever displayed in a show window has been attracting attention at the Thomas Motor company, corner of Thirteenth street and Macdonald avenue, and is pictured in the above photograph.

The scene was arranged by Jack Myers of the Western Auto Supply company and gives the vacation seeker an urgent call to the open as well as a good idea of what is needed on a camping trip. Camp equipment and accessories of various kinds are shown.

One of the main features of the exhibit is the new type of two door tent which has a drop curtain to enable two couples to lodge in it. According to R. W. Gilbert, manager of the Western Auto Supply company, the new type of two-door tent was originated by the company, as well as the umbrella type of tent. It was given its first demonstration here.

The female model was supplied by Garfinkles.

'POISON' BOTTLE HELD HARMLESS IN TESTS AT U.C.

BERKELEY, June 11. Mysterious "poison perfume" bottle, which was the apparent cause of half a dozen girls fainting in a Pacific Grove grammar school recently was received today at the state food and drug department at the University of California in an effort to determine the nature of the bottle's contents. C. L. McCharles, acting director of the department, stated that the bottle was empty, but that its odor indicated that it had contained nothing more harmful than a very good brand of violet perfume. He said he was reasonably certain that there was no ingredient of a harmful nature in the perfume. The odor was quite strong, and it is believed that spilling of the perfume on the floor of the crowded classroom was what caused the girls to become ill.

ODOR MAKES SIX ILL

The bottle of perfume was taken to school by 16-year-old Edna Davidson, a seventh grade pupil. She is said to have been given the vial of perfume by a woman she met at the amusement beach at Pacific Grove. According to the report made of the affair, she was unable to open it, and took it to school with her, where one of the boys accidently knocked it out of her hand while he was trying to take it from her. The bottle fell on the floor and was broken.

The room became permeated with the strong odor of violet perfume and six of the girls complained of being ill. They suffered from alternate chills and fever and stomach pains. They were taken home, but were able to return to school in about one hour.

NOTHING DEADLY FOUND

Probation Officer Nye Otis sat in a closed room with the bottle and what was left of its contents and said that although he continued this test for an hour he did not feel any ill effects. He expressed the opinion that there was nothing of a deadly nature in the perfume.

The girls who were overcome by the odor were Evelyn Spottswood, 11; Odelia Stinger, 15; Theodora Gross, 11; Rosalie Kimball, 14; Edna Davidson 14, and Dorothy Emmons, 15.

First Christian Church Members Hold Social Meet

Nearly 200 attended the First Christian church "Church Night", Wednesday night. Closer fellowship and enlarging acquaintanceship among the people was the object of the affair and it was generally agreed that the purpose was fulfilled.

The entertainment opened with community singing of "America" and "Blest Be The Tie That Binds," under the leadership of Rev. F. A. Woten. The other numbers on the program were:

Piano number—Dorothy Pawlas.
Readings—Mrs. Grace Megenity.
Vocal solo—Mrs. Aubrey Wilson.
Vocal selection—Mrs. Ross Calfee.

Debate—"Resolved, that the Origin of Man Was Monkey," George Clark, affirmative; Henry Clark, negative. This debate created much hard thinking, and the concensus of opinion was that man did not originate from a monkey. The brothers who thrashed out this prevalent and popular subject proved to be first class orators, and both claimed to have first hand information on the subject.

BITTER FIGHT EXPECTED ON CITY BLUE LAW

That the city council chamber in the city hall will be packed to the doors next Monday night by an audience to witness and participate in a bitter battle to be waged before the city council for the closing of Sunday amusements in Richmond was indicated by various developments yesterday.

Attorney Clare D. Horner was retained by Adolph Winters to represent him in his fight to keep Winters hall open for Sunday skating; a group of young people, said to be opposed to the proposed ban on Sunday dancing and skating, are said to have organized in a body to voice their opposition Monday night; others opposed to the measure are making preparations to present their case; while on the affirmative side the Richmond Church Fellowship and others will be present to support their cause.

BITTER BATTLE LOOMS

One of the most spirited controversies ever seen in Richmond seems to be on the books for Monday night at which time the city council will take up for re-consideration an amended ordinance introduced last Monday night by the Church Fellowship, prohibiting skating and dancing in the city on Sunday.

The opinion was expressed by Attorney Clare D. Horner, yesterday, that the city council would not be able to terminate the permit granted to Adolph Winters to conduct a skating rink in Winters hall on Sunday, which has ten more months to run. Horner held it was a contract and could not be revoked without cause.

On the other hand, City Attorney D. J. Hall, stated yesterday that the ordinance if adopted would terminate the skating permit granted to Winters since any permit is subject to any change that may be made in the ordinances.

MAY CALL ELECTION

Indications point, too, to the probability that the question may be submitted to a vote of the people at the next municipal election or a special election called for that purpose. Rev. C. R. G. Poole has expressed the wish that he might see the question ballotted upon, and it is understood that this alternative will be suggested to the city council.

In opposition to the ordinance, dancers are being asked to register their protests and an effort is being made to get local organizations to take a stand on the issue.

BISHOP SCORES EVOLUTION FOES

CALIFORNIA NOT HIT BY OREGON SCHOOL RULING

(By Universal Service)

SACRAMENTO, June 11. California parents may take their children out of the public schools and put them in private institutions if they don't like the courses of study prescribed by law. But as long as the youngesters are in public schools they will be forced to comply with the statutes of this state, regardless of the recent Oregon decision on "Personal Liberty."

That is the pronouncement made today by Will C. Wood, State superintendent of public instruction, in reply to requests from California parents that their offspring be exempted for hygiene, physical education and other subjects as a result of the United States Supreme Court decision effectng the rights of parents in the upbringing of their children.

The decision in question invalidated an Oregon statute providing that all children between the ages of eight and sixteen years must attend public schools. The court held that this discrimination against private schools was an invasion of individual freedom guaranteed by the United States constitution.

"This does not affect the California school situation in any way," said Wood. "Parents here may elect to send their children to private schools, but if the children attend the public schools they must conform in every way to the rules and regulations of the public schools and follow in every respect the course of study laid down by the public school authorities.

WHY I CAME TO RICHMOND

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles by prominent Richmond business men giving a brief account of their business careers and reasons why they chose Richmond as the field of their business endeavors.

By OTTO A. POULSEN,

Proprietor of the Poulsen Jewelry Store, 609 Macdonald Ave.

I came to Richmond in November, 1906 through the intercession of Joe Iverson, who told me of a site for a jewelry store here which he considered ideal. I was a salesman and watch expert for a San Francisco wholesale jewelry firm at the time. I have run my business here since that time, also inspecting watches for the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific and the San Francisco Bay Terminals railways.

It is my belief that the future of Richmond depends upon industrial development. If we encourage the building of new factories, business will take care of itself. We have great resources, but we have to make encouraging bids to outside firms to get their trade. Otherwise the surrounding towns, which have almost equal advantages, will get ahead of us. Only the other day an asbestos firm which was considering Richmond and Pittsburg as industrial locations, chose the latter because greater advantages were offered there.

Richmond is not a summer resort, nor is it as yet a commuter town. Therefore, our business development lies with the worker. If we can provide more work for more men in this community we will be able to sell more goods to the workers.

More encouragement, indeed, I believe that all our best efforts should be given to locating new industries and not so much to investors in real estate. The latter has a tendency to increase speculation in business properties, incidentally causing merchants to pay more rent which without a corresponding increase in business raises the cost of doing business and also increasing the cost of rents of apartments, rooms and homes for industrial and other employees.

I believe that Richmond has an industrial future but I feel certain that our possibilities of industrial development have to be husbanded with the greatest care and foresight.

John D. Rockefellers Present as New Pastor Lauches His "Thrilling Adventure" in Religion

This is one of the best photographs to be made in recent years of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., and his son, John D., Jr. It was taken after they had attended services at the Park Avenue Baptist Church in New York when the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor-elect preached his first sermon and launched his "thrilling adventure" in liberal religion. After the services the elder Rockefeller clasped the liberal clergyman's hand warmly and said, "I want to thank you for that eloquent and moving sermon."

Jail Birds Hired For Barry Movie At Wesley Church

Real foot-pads, second-story artists, thugs and crooks were requisitioned for "Rags to Riches," Wesley Barry's latest featuring picture which comes to the Wesley Methodist church, corner Ninth and Nevin, tonight at 7:15.

This was decided after a consultation between Mr. Rapf and Director Wallace Worsley, because it was felt important to make the picture as realistic and faithful to life as possible. A certain person was dispatched to the shady sections of Los Angeles, and before long the studio boasted of as fine a collection of toughs as could be found on the Bowery or in the Mission House of New York's Chinatown.

The only thing enjoined on these men, many of them jail birds, was that they become respectable members of society during their brief careers as motion picture actors. And in view of the fancy figures offered them for the favor, they were only too delighted to consent.

As a result, "Rags to Riches" is amazingly real, and introduces picture enthusiasts to scenes the like of which have never before been seen. The story centers about young Marmaduke Clarke, son of wealthy parents. This role is played by Wesley Barry. Marmaduke is mollycoddled. But longs for adventure. He gets it one evening when he surprises a burglar about to loot the family vault. The lad pursues the thief in a car, and then finds himself in a den of dangerous criminals.

ENGINEERS TO AWARD CONTRACT FOR MOKELUMNE

A greater group of world-famous engineers will gather in Oakland July 20 to pass on the question of letting contracts on the Mokelumne water project than assembled last year to select the Mokelumne as the source, it became known in a statement by the East Bay Municipal Utility District yesterday. C. E. Grunsky has been added to the staff of consulting engineers and will work with General George W. Goethals, William Mulholland and Chief Engintter Arthur P. Davis in passing on the advisability of letting a contract, or contracts, for the $39,000,000 Mokelumne water works when the bids are opened July 20.

Wm. Mulholland, builder of the Los Angeles aqueduct, and General Goethals, who achieved an international reputation by his work on the Panama Canal, were associated with Davis as consultants last year when the District was sifting the evidence and gathering the facts which led to the selection of the Mokelumne River as the permanent source of supply of water for the East Bay cities. To this distinguished group has been added the name of Grunsky, it was announced by Davis yesterday. Grunksy is one of the best known civil engineers of America.

Right-of-way work is proceeding, with no prospect of serious litigation in sight. Surveys have nearly been completed for the railroad to be built by the Utility District over a four mile strip between Valley Springs and Lancha Plana. Actual construction work on this railroad, one of the shortest in the world, will be undertaken as soon as it is apparent that there is money availiable for the construction of the Lancha Plana Dam. The road will be necessary for the transportation of the vast quantities of material necessary for the construction of this dam which will be one of the highest in the United States.

HIGH GASOLINE PRICE FORECAST BY OIL TRADING

(By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, June 11.—Oil trade developments overshadow all constructive trade news and for that reason there was heavy buying of oil securities today at a time when bears fought the advance in some specialties and the rails. Oil production in the Smackover field continues to decline and is now well below 300,000 barrels. Domestic light and heavy crude oil production in the first week in June decreased 34,000 barrels daily from the previous week.

Oil interests believe that the gasoline situation forecasts a repetition of the high price of 1921. In that year the average price of gasoline was 28.4 cents a gallon, while the present tank wagon price for the country averages 18.2 cents. Stocks of gasoline east of the Rockies are fifty per cent smaller than a year ago and heavy inroads will be made into these stocks to meet the record demand.

Orinda News Items

Marking the close of this semester at the Berkeley High School, Pemberton E. Tenney, of Orinda, entertained about forty of his young friends and school mates at a dancing party at the beautiful summer home of his parents at Lake Orinda. The delightful moonlight ride from Berkeley, along with other festivities were thoroly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Kicken was elected Secretary of the Orinda Improvement Club at its last meeting.

Mrs. Herry and daughter of San Francisco, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. W. T. Wheeler.

The Mutual Real Estate Company, of Oakland held a picnic at the ranch of Mr. George Brockhurst. About two hundred people were there. Races and games of all kinds were enjoyed.

The Orinda P. T. A. will have a dance at the Orinda School Auditorium, Saturday, June 20th. We cordially invite all the young folks and old folks who stay young, to come and enjoy the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Benone, of San Francisco, spent Monday with Mrs. Timothy Kendall.

Mrs. Fred Williamson, who has been very ill for a long time, was brought out Sunday to spend the day at their country place at Orinda. She suddenly had a bad attack and a physician had to be summoned. After she was treated she was able to endure the ride home and is now better. Mr. Williamson owns the Berkely Ice Company, and he and his family have enjoyed week-ends and vacations at Orinda for the past ten years.

Mrs. W. T. Wheeler spent Monday and Tuesday attending musicals and visiting friends in the Bay Cities.

Albert Mortimer has gone on a two weeks vacation with friends in Hollister.

Miss Josephine Miller has made plans to open a dancing class. Miss Miller is a graduate of University of California, and everything points to her success.

Orinda Union P. T. A. will meet at Mrs. Woodbury's next Friday, June 12th. A special meeting for the installation of officers will be held.

At the last P. T. A. meeting, Mrs. Chris Sorensen was appointed Chairman of the refreshment committee, Mrs. Edward McVey and Mrs. O. Ogden, assistants.

Lipton Trophy Is Objective of S. F. Long Yacht Races

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Starting on the longest race in the history of the yachting game, four trim looking vessels sailed over the starting line between Fort Point and Lime Point at 1:15 yesterday afternoon.

Their destination is Papeete on the Island of Tahiti in the Society group, a distance of about 3,600 miles.

The start was perfect and was witnessed by a large number of spectators on shore. The race is for the Sir Thomas Lipton trophy.

Three of the craft starting in the race are yachts, and one is a ketch. They are the Mariner, owned by L. A. Norris; the Eloise, owned by John C. Piver, commodore of the San Francisco Yacht Club; the Idalia, owned by Dr. E. R. Parker, and the Ketch Shawnee, owend by Mark Fontana.

All are equipped with auxillary power, but the propellers have been removed. These will be replaced at Papeete for the return home.

Dr. Parker's Idalia is the only one of the four starters to have a full crew of professional sailors. Captain Louis Ward, who recently brought Hiram Johnson's yacht around from the east coast is in command of the Idalia.

PRELATE FLAYS PERSECUTION OF SCIENCE AIDES

Many learned men have given their views on the question of evolution of late and today Universal presents an article entitled "Why The Fundamentalist Movement," written by Bishop Edward L. Parsons.

By BISHIP L. PARSONS

Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California.

Written Exclusively for Universal Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—It springs from fear, I am sure. So many old standards have been called in question, so many popular traditional beliefs of all kinds have been shaken in the tremendous upheavals of the last decade that imperfectly educated Christian people are in terror lest their religion itself will go. They confuse the real fundamentals of religion with some of its merely passing forms. They attack the assured results of Biblical and historical study in the churches and the assured results of scientific study in the schools and colleges. Being in fear they strike out blindly and unreasonably as people do when they are afraid.

BIOW AT EDUCATION

The dissension they have brought in the churches is bad enough. The attempt to destroy the freedom of schools and colleges and to determine scientific truth as in Tennessee by votes of Legislatures is worse. The effort in both church and education is I think definitely un Christian. It sets itself against the church for the truth of God's world in nature and human history. It attempts to settle questions of truth by methods of force. There is no difference in principle between the trial of the Tennessee professor and that of a heretic by the inquisition. It abjures the fundamental spirit of Christianity, which is love, and substitutes for it denunciation and prosecution.

MUST DEFEND SCIENCE

What then are ordinary Christians who believe in Christ's methods to do? They must first of all defend the freedom of science and of our schools and colleges, and then they must carry on the long and slow progress of education. They must do it with greater seriousness than ever before since this whole sad business has revealed how deeply roots ignorance and prejudice are. Besides education in science and the historical study of the Bible and religion, we must help the fundamentalist to see first of all that all truth is God's truth. The scientist is doing God's work as definitely as the theologian and a Christian theology must include the truth of scientific and historical research as well as the truth of the moral and spiritual life of man. We must further show that the spirit of Christ can revail only through reasonableness and mutual trust, and finally we must make it clear that the understanding of Christian truth depends upon the presence of love. It is only He that willeth to do God's will, which is love, who can know the true doctrine of God. The fundamentalist, the Ku Klux Klan, criminal syndicalism laws, the outburst of militarism in America all spring from the same root.

We won't get rid of them until we can teach people to trust the power of love and good will.

Income Taxpayers Reduced By Rate

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Since the income tax rate was reduced by the 1924 revenue act, the number of taxpayers paying on the installment plan has been reduced by 854,000. The Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today.

Last year 1,774,000 persons paid the taxes by installments, while this year the number is only 920,000. The second installment for the present year is due on or before midnight of June 15.

"Snooky" Enters Beauty Pageant At Santa Cruz

One of the attractions bound to interest the younger fraternity will be "Snooky", who will be exhibited at the California State Wide Beauty Pageant at Santa Cruz, June 10th to 14th, for the benefit of the youngsters.

"Snooky" believes in being in fashion. He is wearing a bathing suit passed by the censors.

"Snooky' is known throughout the length and breadth of the land as the "movie monkey." He has appeared in hundreds of motion picture films and is known by every child in the United States.

An autocamping has [illegible] well earned its place at the top of the list as the greatest of all outdoor [illegible]. There is no substitute for autocamping as it offers a wide variety of diversion suitable for all members of the family. Take the average American family for example. No two want to go the same place or do the same thing. Dad wants to spend his vacation fishing; mother needs relief from the daily routine and the hot kitchen, and chooses the mountains; brother wants a hunting place, and sister chooses the sea shore. The answer? Take them all [illegible].

The [illegible] with many auto [illegible] is that [illegible] the tourist returns more fatigued than rested and it is to be the sole purpose of this series of articles to aid the vacationist in making his trip a success. Here are a few of the problems that will be worked out during the series:

An Announcement

We take pleasure in announcing that the Record-Herald has made arrangements with the Western Auto Supply Company to receive a series of articles on camping written by a well known pioneer of motor camping—"Outdoor Franklin." Mr. Franklin needs no introduction to many of our readers. Set him down on any stream west of the Rockies and he will tell you what the fish on that particular stream rise to. Mention any big game of the Pacific Slope and he will show you trophies bagged with his own gun. For 21 years he has driven an average of 25,000 to 30,000 miles a year, and in the course of his travels has visited practically every city and hamlet in the west. In the series of articles, one of which will be a regular feature each week, "Outdoor" Franklin will tell you how to get the most out of your vacation and will impart to you the knowledge of camping gained through his years of outdoor work.

With rising anger she stepped deliberately forward into Harry's line of vision. But both men were engrossed in some technical detail of a new carburetor. The stranger glanced at her rather impatiently; then edged around so that she was again faced only by his hulking back.

A spasm of real anger reddened her cheeks. If this insulting rudeness to their wives seemed natural to Harry too, he should be undeceived. Turning on her heel, she walked back to the stile, sprang lightly over, and, paying no heed to the call of her name, hurried across the fields.

Harry caught her up near the garden gate.

"What on earth's the matter?" he called. "Aren't you well, Leo? Why did you go off like that?"

She turned round, her hand on the gate. "Who was that—that—person?" she flared.

"What? Who? Do you mean Tellamen?" Harry gazed in bewilderment at her flashing eyes. "He belongs to those steel works in Cuving——"

"I don't care what he belongs to. I have never felt so insulted, so—so——" She choked in her rage. "And his wife, too——"

"My dear girl, what d'you mean? Who insulted you?"

"You mean to say you didn't see—didn't realize? Is that the—usual way these—so-called 'gentlemen' behave to their wives? Not even bare respect? Not—not the very rudiments of manners? Oh, my God! In what—what gutter has everybody been dragged up?"

Directly the words were out, she understood their full import. He drew back as if stung. The look she had not dared to meet last night flashed into his eyes, followed by a quick look of pain. Impulsively she stretched out her hand.

"Harry—Harry! I—oh! I didn't mean——"

He ignored the hand. Stepping forward, he held open the gate as, last night, he had held open the dining-room door, for her to pass through. She looked up at him appealingly; but her own eyes wavered before the coldness they encountered.

"You had better go in; it's beginning to rain. Please do not allude to this matter again," was all he said.

In silence, mortified, yet rebellious, she passed up the garden path. Words uttered long ago dinned into her brain: "There is a great gulf that can never be bridged."

"It shall—it shall!" cried her heart. Then, alone in her room, she clasped her hands in sudden fear. "It must. Ah, it must, it must!"

CHAPTER X

Again a small screw proved its disproportionate effect. Both Leo and Harry were conscious, after that Saturday afternoon, of a sense of strain. Try as they might, they could not bring back the old note into their intercourse. The demeanor of each held a subtle difference which the other quickly realized. After being one for so long they seemed suddenly to have become two people: very fond, united by mutual attraction, but nevertheless—two. Furthermore, below that attraction, they had discovered a thin layer of ice incapable of bearing the weight of two. Aware of this, both became unduly conscious in an effort to avoid it. Self-consciousness sounds the death-knell to passion. With the waning of the passion that had bound them so suddenly and tumultuously together, a hollow feeling of emptiness frightened Leo. She had, as it were, taken a step forward into a gulf covered with flowering briars. And hastily she withdrew her foot, searching feverishly for any branch capable of swinging across to the other side.

Harry himself provided the first branch by carrying out his resolve to buy horses. But she reached the branch through the briars of another unpleasant little scene. When, one morning, she announced her resolve to go to town for a night, to see about riding-kit, Harry looked up hurriedly from his letters.

"I can't possibly get away this week. Can't you leave it until next? I can take you one day toward the end of next week."

"My dear Harry! I don't need to be 'taken'! I know my way about London blindfolded."

But her laughter fled when, rather peremptorily, he forbade the jaunt. "I don't like it—now. Young married women about here don't dash off to London by themselves."

Leo flared up at this. "Damn the 'young married women about here'! After the war, too! Did they spend it in cotton-wool? It's absurd. Of course I shall go."

"No, Leo."

"Yes, Harry. And I shall stay for a month, if you are so ridiculous."

Harry set his lips and stared at his plate.

"Everybody here ought to be in the Ark," she fired a last shot.

"Thanks," he observed dryly.

Leo went to London by the first train she could catch. She engaged a room at their usual hotel, and set forth upon her shopping. As the day wore on her spirits sank lower and lower. With the dusk she hurried back to the hotel, cancelled her room, and caught a train for Cuvingham; then took a taxi out to Willerton. It was long past ten. Harry sat alone in his study, when she appeared in the doorway. She ran across the room and impulsively flung her arm round his neck.

"Oh, my God! In What—what gutter has everybody been dragged up?"

"I couldn't bear it without you! I was so homesick. I had to come back!" she cried, between tears and laughter.

The light she loved to see and had missed of late, illumined his face. He picked her up and carried her to his big armchair. . . .

When she appeared for her first riding lesson, her slender limbs clad in neat breeches and coat, the shining waves of short hair only partly concealed by a dark brown cap, his eyes lit up with admiration; but, for a moment, his heart misgave him.

She looked up from fondling the soft nose of her new bay mare.

"I am bribing her with plenty of sugar. Now she ought to behave nicely."

"You shouldn't bribe. You must teach her you are master," Harry replied, helping her to mount.

"That's not tactful. Oh! she's moving!—Stand still, for heaven's sake!—Not at all tactful, Harry. Guide by love, not by—— Why is she shaking her head? Don't loose me. Oh! I think I'll get down again—quick——"

"No—no—no!" Laughing, he tried vainly to unclasp the arms she had thrown around her horse's neck. "Let go, Leo."

"I daren't—she's shaking her head again."

"Of course she'll shake her head! She's not made of wood."

A shriek interrupted him. "Oh—I wish she were—Harry! Was that a buck?"

He glanced at the groom's convulsed face, and forced his own into gravity, resolutely pushing Leo back into the saddle. "No; she only lifted a hind leg. The poor soul must, if she's to walk at all. Now—hold your reins like this." . . .

With one eye fixed anxiously upon her animal's ears, Leo listened with scant attention to instructions. Harry swung himself into the saddle of his own black mount.

"Come along," he said. "What's the matter now?"

"Her right ear keeps twitching. What's that a sign of?"

"A fly—in summer."

"But it's winter—Harry, you are not taking me out of the yard? No—no——"

"We can't spend the afternoon walking round the yard! Loose the bridle, Evans. Now, Leo, let her follow me. She's quiet as a lamb, and perfectly steady."

"But I'm not," Leo gasped, wabbling unhappily in his wake through the big doors into the drive. "I would rather ride on a pillion and cling to you, Harry. You look so safe."

Harry waited for her to come abreast, and laid a hand on her arm to steady her. His eyes were laughing. "That's a terrible confession from a—a modern wife—to a husband still in the Ark!"

Though amusing at first, this riding did not prove an altogether successful branch. Leo, unused to horses, was nervous. Wallis knew not the meaning of the word; it made him impatient. Leo flatly refused even to hunt.

"I should hate a crowd. And the poor little fox—we might kill it!"

Harry's golf proved a more successful branch than Leo's riding. So successful, in fact, that its original purpose was defeated. It swung Harry too far across the gulf, so that by a twisting path he returned to his original side. Being of wiry build and quick brain, he proved too brilliant a pupil for Leo, and took lessons from the professional. To his own astonishment he became so keen on the game that the hopeless disease known as "golf mania" threatened. At first he had appeared with an expensive golf-bag of the latest design, full of shining clubs, and his person clad in a tweed golf-suit of the newest pattern. The whole outfit was so perfect, from pleats and pockets to brightly colored tags dangling beside his long stockings, that Leo almost gasped. For a moment she turned away, struggling with the impulse to laugh. Then her innate loyalty came to her aid.

"Harry, dear! How awfully smart you are!" she cried. He took the odious adjective literally, as a sincere compliment from one who never paid empty compliments. She saw quick pleasure light up the usual gravity of his face.

"I am so glad you like it," he replied simply. After that Leo could say nothing. Only one loophole remained.

But now that the game had him in its power, clothes were a secondary consideration. All odd moments were spent upon the links, in any garment feasible to the opportunity. And for a time this branch fulfilled its mission. Golf became all-absorbing to both. It formed the diet for every meal. Leo's struggle to keep the lead in their matches caused a spirit of friendly rivalry. For once she regained a sense of comradeship with another fellow-creature—and that the one with whom she had longed for it in vain.

In another district this might have continued. But in that of Cuvingham and Willerton men were not expected to want to play with their own wives, unless extremely newly-wed. They did so from a sense of duty sometimes, or when no other male partner was forthcoming. Wives were encouraged to join the golf club to prevent murmurings in the home circle. They played their little games and added a touch of prettiness, in their gay jumpers. Their prattle and their ignorance of rules caused a certain amused interest. As long as they kept out of the way on the course, it was a pleasure to see them about—as it is to see bees and butterflies on a hot day. But—unless filled with cake and tea at mixed-foursome competitions—Man found his real game with Man. Realizing in Wallis a coming player, they naturally concluded he would want a game—not merely to "potter round" with his wife. So they came to "the poor fellow's rescue." And gradually Harry seceded to the man's portion of the club-house, to their competitions, their bridge, their world-moving discussions. Naturally, therefore, the rivalry with Leo fizzled out—as did their games together. The gulf remained. . . .

Leo found a greater interest than golf. The library having been entirely "done up" in accordance with her own tastes, and stacked with books by the excellent firm employed, was now being put in order. A librarian came each day to catalogue. To Leo, books were a real world, like music. They were life itself: the life of the mind, of the spirit, never dying, but unfolding from one generation to another. She spent long hours with the librarian, or poring alone over rare editions she had never thought to possess.

The natural result happened. The dormant side of her nature—the old spiritual, slightly mystical side—stunned in Switzerland and since then deliberately buried, stirred under the leaves and earth. Old interests, strange yearnings, faint echoes of those far-off ecstatic raptures, stole about her soul. With the same unconsciousness that Harry drifted away into club life, she drifted back toward the portals of a world wherein he had never set foot.
